McCAMLEY TO HIT THE AIRWAVES

Attacks Washington for Favoring Special Interests Over the Middle Class

LAS CRUCES – Today Congressional candidate and Doña Ana County Commissioner Bill McCamley announced that his first television ad would begin airing in the Albuquerque media market on Friday.

Titled “Gravy Train,” the ad focuses on Washington’s failure to defend the middle class against special interests. The ad can be viewed on McCamley’s YouTube page: <http://www.youtube.com/watchbill>

“There is a special interest gravy train in Washington, DC,” McCamley says in the ad. “Money from big oil and drug companies comes in one door, and taxpayer giveaways go right out the other.”

“This ad not only highlights why Bill is running, it clearly shows the passion and energy that he is going to bring to the general election and to Washington in January,” said McCamley campaign spokesman Mike Ward. “Voters want to see a candidate who stands up for them against the special interests, and this ad focuses on how Bill will do just that.”

The ad was produced by Fletcher Rowley Chao and Riddle, which also created the television ads for Travis Childers, the Democrat who defeated Greg Davis in Tuesday’s special election in rural Mississippi. The district is a reliably conservative district that President Bush won by 25 points.

Within the last three weeks, McCamley has been endorsed by the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), which represents over 12,000 city, county, state, and university employees in New Mexico, by the Sierra Club, and by Al Kissling, the 2006 Democratic nominee for the District. McCamley was previously endorsed by the New Mexico Building and Construction Trades Council, which represents over 7,000 New Mexico workers. He has also been endorsed by numerous present and former Democratic officials in New Mexico’s Second District (see www.billmccamley.com for more information).

McCamley is a Doña Ana County Commissioner and former Executive Director of the New Mexico Rural Development Response Council. He won the Democratic Party’s Pre-Primary Convention for the Second Congressional District with 49% of the Convention delegates over his remaining opponent’s 36% in a tremendous show of strength. Internal polling has shown McCamley leading his opponent by over 20%.
